VILLAGE WINES

We make mountain wines. The Andes Mountain Range determines the identity of our wines, since it is decisive in the climate, water and soils.

We believe that the Uco Valley is, due to its proximity, the area that best expresses the mountain identity in Mendoza. Since we began to explore its diversity, I was captivated by the austere richness and uniqueness of each of its villages.

Polígonos is the expression of those villages of the Valley. These are wines that make us travel through those places, through their landscapes, climates and soils.

Its grapes come from different places that can be imagined on a map with diverse shapes and edges. A capricious geometry as diverse as the sides of a Polygon. As diverse as the wines of each village.

POLÍGONOS VISTA FLORES CHENIN BLANC 2023

ORIGIN

IG Vista Flores, Tunuyán, Valle de Uco. 1000 m | 3281 ft.

This wine comes from old vines planted in 1969.

THE PLACE

Located in the central area of the Uco Valley, between 1000 and 1050 meters above sea level and on the left bank of the Tunuyán River, Vista Flores has a warm temperate climate with significant temperature variation. Its soils were formed by river deposits and contributions from the alluvial fans originating from the foothills. In these soils, we find gravel and small stones at varying depths beneath a horizon of sand and silt.

HARVEST

The 2023 vintage was warm and very dry, which gave us excellent health and quality in the grapes. It is a year that is also characterized by lower yields, due to the frost in the spring of 2022. Knowing the particularities of each place in the vineyards allowed us to define the harvest time for each area very precisely, always in search of freshness, the expression of place and avoiding overripeness.

The wines show great purity and transparency, with vibrant acidity and an enormous complexity of aromas.

VINIFICATION

Direct pressing. Fermentation with native yeasts. Both fermentation and aging were carried out in concrete vessels. Without malolactic fermentation.
