

Mendoza, 10th June, 2025

ONLY ARGENTINE WINE WITH 100 POINTS

Finca Piedra Infinita Gravascal 2022 is the only Argentine wine to achieve a perfect score in the latest report published by renowned American critic, James Suckling.

Today, James Suckling's latest report on Argentine wines, titled "Argentina 2025 Tasting Report: A Wine Journey to the Extremes," was released. Suckling and his team shared their ratings after tasting over 2,000 wines from 60 producers across all of the country's wine regions. In this context, the only wine to achieve 100 points was Finca Piedra Infinita Gravascal 2022.

Hailing from a specific 0.73-hectare parcel located in the northeast corner of Finca Piedra Infinita in Paraje Altamira, known for its very stony soils with a strong presence of granite and limestone, the Gravascal 2022 emerges as "a profound and quietly captivating wine." In the words of Jacobo García Andrade, Senior Editor at JamesSuckling.com, "on the palate, it is firm and precise, driven by a stony texture, with discreet fruit that gently reveals itself behind a saline, savory core. Intense and absorbing (...) it is excellent now, but will gain complexity with some bottle aging."

"The 2022 vintage was wonderful, fresh, and perfectly balanced, giving us elegant, fine, and complex wines," recalls Sebastián Zuccardi. "Malbecs from Paraje Altamira, in particular, show aromas and notes of red fruits; very expressive with great texture and juiciness."

In addition to Finca Piedra Infinita Gravascal 2022, which achieved a perfect score, other Zuccardi Valle de Uco wines also received excellent ratings from JamesSuckling.com:

- Finca Agua de la Jarilla 2022 - 99 points.
- Finca Piedra Infinita Supercal 2022 - 98 points.
- Finca Las Cuchillas 2023 - 97 points.
- Finca Las Cerrilladas 2022 - 97 points.
- Finca Canal Uco 2022 - 97 points.

- Finca Piedra Infinita 2022 - 97 points.
- Aluvional San Pablo 2022 - 97 points.
- Aluvional Gualtallary 2022 - 97 points.
- About James Suckling

James Suckling was born on September 29, 1958, in Los Angeles, California. He studied political science and journalism, and today, he is globally renowned as a wine and cigar critic thanks to an extensive career. After serving as editor-in-chief and leading the European department for the prestigious publication Wine Spectator, which he joined when it had only 800 subscribers, Suckling left the company in 2010 to focus on his own website:

JamesSuckling.com. He only writes about wines that score above 90 points and reserves the coveted 100 points for those great wines that combine all imaginable virtues in perfect harmony. James Suckling and his team focus on the world's great wines, including Italy, Bordeaux, Champagne, Australia, New Zealand, California, Argentina, and Chile.

About Zuccardi Valle de Uco

Since planting their first vineyard in Mendoza in 1963, the Zuccardi family has been a leader in Argentine viticulture, known for innovation and their commitment to sustainable development. With a rich history of visionary winemaking techniques and exploration of high-altitude terroirs in the Uco Valley, Zuccardi Valle de Uco cultivates mountain wines that express a true sense of place, consistently recognized as some of the most exceptional wines in the world. www.zuccardiwines.com

Press contact: Sebastián Alén Guichón
sguichon@familiazuccardi.com · T (011) 4786-4433
Press Kit